Introduction

The Programme standards and practices document is part of a suite of documents that is essential for all prospective and authorized IB World Schools. The suite provides critical information for the planning, implementation, development and evaluation of all International Baccalaureate® (IB) programmes.

- The foundation of what it means to be an IB World School is articulated in the Programme standards and practices document.
- The process of how schools attain and maintain authorization is articulated in the authorization and evaluation documents.
- The legal stipulations are articulated in the rules and general regulations related to the IB programmes.

All of these documents can be found on the IB public website (<http://www.ibo.org>).

This Programme standards and practices document provides a set of criteria against which both the IB World School and the IB can evaluate success in the implementation of the three programmes: the Primary Years Programme, the Middle Years Programme and the Diploma Programme. It replaces the document published in 2005.

This document contains programme standards (common to all programmes), practices (common to all programmes) and requirements (specific to an individual programme).

The standards are general requisites established for schools to implement any IB programme. Practices are further definitions of the standards. Requirements are programme specific as each programme has unique features and demands specific requirements. These programme requirements are detailed under the related practice and are also referenced in other programme-specific documentation. The common standards and practices and the programme-specific requirements are necessary for the successful implementation of the relevant IB programme.

The IB is aware that for each school the implementation of an IB programme is a journey and that the school will meet these standards and practices to varying degrees along the way. However, the IB expects that the school must make a commitment towards meeting all the standards, practices and programme requirements. The Programme standards and practices is the foundational document for schools and the IB to ensure quality and fidelity in the implementation of its programmes.

Programme standards and practices for all programmes

Glossary

Concurrency of learning	A principle promoted in the Middle Years Programme and the Diploma Programme. Students deal with a balanced curriculum each year in which the required subjects are studied simultaneously.
Curriculum	All aspects of the teaching and learning process for students in the programme, namely its design, implementation, assessment and review.
Evidence	The observation or documentation that verifies a practice. It demonstrates that a practice is in place at the school.
Governing body	The duly constituted individual or group that has the ultimate legal authority to make decisions on behalf of the school.
Head of school (director/principal in some systems)	The person who leads and supervises the daily operations of the school, ensuring that the policies of the governing body are put into practice.
IB philosophy	The IB's set of beliefs and values that guides the development and delivery of its educational programmes. It is reflected in the mission statement, the IB learner profile and the programme-specific documents that describe and explain each individual programme (for example, Making the PYP happen: A curriculum framework for international primary education (January 2007), MYP: From principles into practice (August 2008), The Diploma Programme: From principles into practice (April 2009).
IB-recognized professional development	Activities listed on the IB events calendar on the IB public website (http://www.ibo.org) or in-school professional development activities organized by the relevant IB office.
Language learning	A generic term in this document that may or may not include the ideas of language development and acquisition, depending on context.
Pedagogical leadership	The effective management of resources, systems or structures to ensure that teaching and learning at the school addresses the overarching mission of the school and the IB programme standards; or those responsible for its management.
Practices	Further definitions of standards. Implementing a practice will result in an outcome that can be identified with evidence. Practices will be implemented to varying degrees over time as a result of the growth and development of an IB programme at the school.

Programme(s)	The three educational programmes offered by the IB (the Primary Years Programme, the Middle Years Programme and the Diploma Programme). A school may have authorization to offer one or more.
Programme requirements	These provide programme-specific detail on some common practices. Both the requirements and practices are necessary for the successful implementation of the respective IB programme.
Resources	This can include people, time, materials and money.
School community	All stakeholders of the school—students, parents, school staff, school managers and the governing body. The IB anticipates its educational programme(s) will have a positive influence upon the entire school community.
Staff	All school personnel involved in the programme(s), including those with managerial roles, those with academic roles (teachers/faculty) and those with support roles.
Standards	The general requisites established for schools to implement any IB programme. They indicate what schools must have in place to implement the Primary Years Programme, the Middle Years Programme and the Diploma Programme. The standards must be met at the point of authorization and at each programme evaluation. Programme standards are what schools demonstrate in order to maintain authorization; they can be reached by implementing the practices identified for each standard.
Teaching hours	The number of clock hours of contact time with students.
The school	A holistic term referring to the entity established for implementing the programme(s), the decision makers and its stakeholders.
Written curriculum	The documentation identifying in detail what is to be taught, such as planners, units, outlines, lesson plans and syllabuses.
